Printing tips. After printing more than fifty cookie cutters, I would suggest printing the cookie cutters with no infill, just perimeters. The walls are 1.2mm, and I use a 0.4mm nozzle. I told the slicing program that I have a 0.3mm nozzle, so the wall will be composed with 4 perimeters (and 0% infill). It prints faster and the result is amazing.

Size. Each cookie cutter has a different design and the size may vary. I tried to make them with a similar surface, and the largest side of each design is between 70-100mm.

Important. Remember that 3d printed objects are not dishwasher proof. Hand wash only. Items should be cleaned using water below 60° Celcius, and exposure to moisture or direct sunlight should be avoided.
